THEY ARE TIRED AND DISGRUNTLED

Indiana Automobile Party Has Had a Distressing Fight With Bad Roads Along the Midland Trail — President of Weber Club and Party to Meet the Tourists in Provo and Arrange Reception

According to a message received today from J. D. Larson, secretary of the Ogden Publicity bureau, the Indiana automobilists may cancel their Ogden date on Saturday. The secretary is traveling with the party and he states in his telegram that storms have raised the Midland trail and several cars are tied up at Thompson, a village in southeastern Utah. The secretary does not think the tourists will be able to reach Salt Lake before Saturday. The following is his telegram:

"Suddenly rains tied up part of party at Thompson. Stop. Thursday night at Price probably. Midland road very bad. Party tired and disgruntled. They may cancel Ogden date. Come to Provo, if possible. Poor trail upsets everything."

The telegram was addressed to President H. M. Rowe of the Weber club.

A few days ago a member of the Weber club declared that the Overland trail would be boosted by having the Indiana tourists take the Midland route. He said the road would be found so bad that no road could be worse and would at once maintain the Overland trail to be better. From Larson's telegram, it appears that the tourists will only go as far as Salt Lake and then be sent around the equally bad trail to Ely.

The reception committee had planned to leave Ogden today at 2 o'clock to meet the Indiana people at Provo and accompany them from there to Salt Lake. In view of the telegram, however, the trip was postponed until tomorrow afternoon unless other telegrams arrive advising to the contrary.

The Weber club will endeavor to persuade the Hoosiers to make an all-day stop in this city, no matter what time they arrive in Ogden. As they are now behind their schedule, it is possible that by pointing out the better road around the north of the lake, the automobilists will change the official route in order to make up for time lost.

TWO COLORED WOMEN ARE ON TRIAL

All of the morning session of Judge Reeder's court was taken up this morning in hearing the city's evidence against Dora Davis and Jane Doe Ross, two colored women arrested in the raid on the rooming house, at 2541-2 Twenty-fifth street, Saturday night. They were charged with selling intoxicating liquor without a license.

When the city had concluded its case, the attorney for the defense asked for a dismissal on the grounds that the complaint did not state a cause of action. He maintained that where the complaint alleges that the defendant sold a bottle of beer, it should state the name of the purchaser and also the purchase price. Judge Reeder overruled the motion for dismissal. The defense will offer its testimony tomorrow morning.

Charles Manzell, the special officer who figured so prominently in yesterday's trial, was the important witness for the city today again. Detectives Burke and Chambers, who made the arrests only testified that they had gone to the place with a search and seizure warrant and did not see the beer sold. They entered the place, made the arrest and seized the beer as evidence, after Manzell had gone ahead and purchased the liquor.

Manzell's testimony was similar to that given yesterday. He said he had entered the rooms of the Ross woman, after she had beckoned to him from the rear window of the rooming house. He asked if he could buy beer and was told that he could, so he bought a bottle, paying $1 as the price. He was drinking it, he said, with the woman when the arrest was made.

"Your duty is to suppress crime. Isn't it?" asked the attorney for the defense upon cross examination.

"Sure it is," answered Manzell. "Do you believe you were doing your duty by purchasing beer after 9 o'clock in that rooming house, contrary to law?" was the next question.

"Sure," answered Manzell.

Several pint bottles of beer and some half filled glasses and bottles were introduced by the city as evidence.

TOMORROW IS CHAUTAUQUA'S FIRST DAY

Furthermore, the lake and pools near the grounds have received a treatment of coal oil to prevent the growth of mosquitoes.

With a prelude by Mrs. Maggie Tow Browning, the ten-day session will begin. Dr. Ira Landrith, of the Ward Belmont college, will follow with a lecture. The various clubs will be organized and the Chautauqua table will be opened by Mrs. Ida B. Cole. In the evening Mrs. Browning will sing and Dr. Landrith will deliver his second lecture.

R. L. Noggle, the official photographer, has wired to the factory today, asking that the motion picture camera ordered by the Ogden Publicity bureau be shipped at once in order that a reel may be taken of the monster pageant on Pioneer day.

Tuesday and were surprised to learn that the traveling party from the Midwest were flocking around somewhere in Colorado.

The men made the trip from Santa Fe to Salt Lake in four days of actual traveling, covering a distance of 1092 miles.

C. C. Catren is a son of Senator Catren of New Mexico.

BIRTHS IN THE COUNTY NOT REPORTED

State Sanitary Inspector C. Frank Emery, who is engaged in securing accurate statistics for the state registrar, stated today that since he has been in Ogden he has found 300 births in the county that have not been reported. He declared he did not know how many more he and his assistants would find before completing their work in Weber county.

"If the records of vital statistics are not correct, they are of no use whatever," said the inspector today. "If we can't get accurate information, there is no use troubling over statistics at all. It is our purpose to work in this county until we get definite information."

When asked what is to be done with the eight complaints that have been filed for some time against local physicians, Mr. Emery said it was the intention of the state board of health to push the charges.

—this certainly is a busy little corner of the town. Hundreds of customers are here every day—attracted by the July bargains—the carpenters are hammering away at new shelving—the boys are moving shoe and clothing stocks to the new quarters.

—and with it all everyone is well served and supplied with genuine bargains.

Seven alleged vagrants, arrested on the outskirts of the city by deputy sheriffs, were brought from the county jail to police court this morning, where they all pleaded guilty. Two were given suspended sentences and the other five were given five days each.

Because he claims to be suffering of tuberculosis and is on his way home, A. L. Bartlett, a young man charged with drunkenness, was given a suspended sentence. He said his home is in Lewiston, Idaho, with his father, and he was returning from Kansas, where he visited his mother. Patrolman Swanson arrested Bartlett as he was asleep in a lumber yard.

The morning session was devoted to hearing Ogden witnesses, who told of finding the body at the Ogden Union Depot, and Inspector Carlson of the Salt Lake police force, who repeated Mrs. Ekman's confession.

COMMISSIONER WILL ACT ON REPORT

A member of the vigilance committee reported today that the committee had made a careful investigation of streets and avenues and that interesting data has been gathered. A report with recommendations will be submitted to the city board of commissioners as soon as the information can be compiled.

It is said that some very bad places have been found in the streets and that also some favorable conditions have been found to exist. The committee are not only interested in finding the bad places, but they are determined to place the responsibility, if possible. There are ridges and depressions where sewer and gas streets have been laid and where the streets have been opened for various underground construction, where the filling process was never completed, but whether the city or individuals are responsible for the condition is not fully determined by the members of the committee. However, the vigilantes say, the report of the committee will be of interest to the public.

The committee members say that the Standard's report of the activities of vigilance committee came near to accomplishing the desired result, as since that time there has been considerable doing in clearing away heaps of dirt and other accumulations incident to underground improvements in different parts of the city.

Speaking of the vigilance committee, Commissioner J. C. Nye, superintendent of streets and public improvements, stated that he courted a complete investigation and will be pleased to get the report of the committee with its recommendations. He said that the betterment of the streets, commensurate with the revenue of the city, is much desired by the commissioners and that he is especially interested in accomplishing the best results in that direction, but that it sometimes is not an easy matter to have things done just as they should be.

Mr. Nye says that often the contractor, who builds a sewer or lays a gas main or digs under the street for the placing of wires or pipes for water connections, will not infill the trench completely, often leaving ridges and bumps and hollows, without the knowledge of the board of commissioners, and that when it is learned, it is not an easy matter to get the offenders to place the streets in proper grade or level. He is of the opinion, however, that the engineering department should be directed positively to not permit a contractor to leave sewer work or any other work where the surface of the street is disturbed, until the street is placed in as good condition as when the work began, and, furthermore, that indemnity bonds of contractors be not released until the engineer has examined the work and reported favorably to the commissioners.
